THE BEST PLACE TO WORK

The Art and Science of Creating an Extraordinary Workplace

RON FRIEDMAN, PHD
ADVANCE PRAISE FOR

The Best Place to Work

“What a gem! Enough that it’s a thorough, practical manual for optimizing relationships and work environments, based on new and solid research in human behavior—but it’s a surprising, witty, well-written, and wonderfully engaging read. I had countless ‘aha!’s about how we can effectively get things done. Bravo, Ron Friedman.”

—David Allen, author of Getting Things Done

“A contemporary classic. Dr. Friedman’s new book offers a highly original guide to creating exceptional workplaces based on cross-field academic research and superb examples from real companies. You won’t find these insights elsewhere. From office design to employee motivation to conflict resolution, The Best Place to Work is the best book to have on your shelf now.”

—Marshall Goldsmith, author of What Got You Here Won’t Get You There

“We’ve lost our way. In this stunning book, Ron Friedman helps us get back on track, exploring not only what work is for, but how we can leap forward and become more human, more alive and more effective.”

—Seth Godin, author of The Icarus Deception

“In The Best Place to Work, Ron Friedman examines the factors that take a company from ordinary to extraordinary. The stories in this book—which range from cruise ship casinos to hostage negotiations—are fascinating in their own right, but they also pack powerful, research-based lessons for better leadership in the workplace. Friedman’s findings are often surprisingly counterintuitive, yet always convincing.”

—Daniel H. Pink, author of Drive and To Sell Is Human

continued . . .
“The Best Place to Work is an engaging journey through the latest science of improving the quality of life in organizations. Psychologist Ron Friedman examines how to unleash creativity, boost motivation, and offer rewards and recognition that bring people together rather than driving them apart.” —Adam Grant, Wharton professor and author of Give and Take

“I love this book! It’s smart, fun to read, interesting, clear, and practical. We’re all owners of our workplaces, and this is our owner’s manual. Following Ron’s advice is easy and will pay huge dividends for you and the people with whom you work.” —Peter Bregman, author of 18 Minutes

“An eye-opening, highly readable, and practical guide to improving the way we work. No matter what you do for a living, this book will change the way you see your workplace.” —Professor Richard Wiseman, author of 59 Seconds

“In The Best Place to Work, Ron Friedman brings together decades of psychological research into a package that offers organizations concrete advice to improve the well-being of workers and the quality of work. Much of the advice is eye-opening. I’m sure the results of taking the advice will be too.” —Barry Schwartz, author of The Paradox of Choice and Practical Wisdom

“This fascinating book shows how to create workspaces that foster creativity, collaboration, and high productivity. It’s a joy to read, filled with practical advice for leaders, engaging real-world stories, and grounded in scientific research.” —Keith Sawyer, Morgan Distinguished Professor in Educational Innovations (UNC–Chapel Hill) and author of Zig Zag

“Friedman’s book fills you with optimism about the future of work. If enough managers pay attention to the science he is promoting, then a lot of people are going to roll out of bed on Mondays truly eager to get to the other side of their commutes.” —David McRaney, author of You Are Not So Smart
“When it comes to motivation and engagement, the problem is rarely that the work itself is terrible—it’s that the way we are working is. In The Best Place to Work, Ron Friedman tells you everything—and I mean everything—you need to know to bring out the best in your employees. This powerful (and entertaining!) book is a guide to understanding how subtle, often unconscious influences in the workplace affect happiness, creativity, productivity and loyalty—and how you can use these insights to create real and lasting impact, on your team and in your organization. Everyone should be reading this book.”

—Heidi Grant Halvorson, PhD, associate director of Columbia Business School’s Motivation Science Center and author of 9 Things Successful People Do Differently

“If you want to attract and keep exceptional employees, your culture is the key. In this entertaining book, Ron Friedman offers a practical game plan for building a workplace that thrives.”

—Todd Henry, author of Die Empty

“There’s an astonishing gap between what science knows about human behavior and what companies think they know. In this fascinating book, Ron Friedman outlines the science behind thriving at work and offers practical advice for managers who are committed to making a real difference in the workplace.” —David Burkus, author of The Myths of Creativity

“What a great relief to read a business book that is not just about how to be a better leader but about what makes work more fun, exciting and productive. By focusing on what managers at all levels of an organization can do, this book provides a rich inventory of practical, research-based ideas for making work engaging. A most valuable and entertaining read full of powerful insights that should be read by every manager and employee.”

—Edgar H. Schein, professor emeritus at MIT Sloan School of Management, author of Organizational Culture and Leadership, and coauthor, with John Van Maanen, of Career Anchors

continued . . .
“Ron Friedman’s Best Place to Work presents the latest scientific findings in a highly entertaining but rigorous way. An excellent example of great science writing for practical application in the real world. If you want to make the workplace better, this book is the best place to start.”

—Dean Keith Simonton, PhD, distinguished professor of psychology, University of California, Davis

“The Best Place to Work flows seamlessly and is filled with practical, accessible ways of seeing not only oneself in depth, but also the complex mosaics of workplace environments with pitfalls and opportunities galore. The principles that undergird a fulfilling and healthy life, with room for authentic, creative play, are infused into practical, real-life vignettes throughout its pages. Bringing the science of human innovativeness and productivity into focus, and combining these science-based truths with a life well lived, are what can be gleaned from its chapters.”

—Stuart Brown, MD, author of Play and founder and president of the National Institute for Play

“Ron Friedman bridges the gap between cutting-edge science and the reality of the modern workplace in a way that is clear, sensible, and effective. Friedman does more than offer recommendations—he provides empirically supported tools for turning most any office into a lively, engaging workplace. Written in a user-friendly style that will grab your attention, this book is a must-read for anyone who has wondered why workplaces can’t be successful and welcoming at the same time.”

—Harry Reis, PhD, University of Rochester professor of psychology, past president of the Society for Personality and Social Psychology, and winner of the International Association for Relationship Research’s Distinguished Career award
THE BEST PLACE
TO WORK

The Art and Science of Creating an Extraordinary Workplace

Ron Friedman, PhD

A PERIGEE BOOK
For my grandfather,
who taught me that in the end
the only thing worth being remembered for is kindness
CONTENTS

Introduction: A Tale of Two Menus  xi

PART ONE
DESIGNING AN EXTRAORDINARY WORKPLACE EXPERIENCE

1. Success Is Overrated:  3
   Why Great Workplaces Reward Failure

2. The Power of Place:  26
   How Office Design Shapes Our Thinking

3. Why You Should Be Paid to Play  51

4. What Happy Workplaces Can Learn from a Casino 79

5. How to Turn a Group of Strangers into a Community 101

PART TWO
MOTIVATING EXCELLENCE

6. The Leadership Paradox:  133
   Why Forceful Leaders Develop
   Less Productive Teams

7. Better Than Money:  154
   What Games Can Teach Us About Motivation
Contents

8. How Thinking Like a Hostage Negotiator Can Make You More Persuasive, Influential, and Motivating 177

9. Why the Best Managers Focus on Themselves 199

PART THREE

ATTRACTION AND RETAINING TOP PERFORMERS

10. Seeing What Others Don’t: How to Eliminate Interview Blind Spots That Prevent You from Reading People’s True Potential 221

11. What Sports, Politics, and Religion Teach Us About Fostering Pride 248

Conclusion: Three Keys to Creating an Extraordinary Workplace 267

Acknowledgments 275
Notes 279
Index 324
Near the heart of Silicon Valley, just a few miles south of the San Francisco Bay, sits an enchanting Indian restaurant called Baadal. It is run by Irfan Dama, an animated chef of forty-one, who designs three-course meals that alternate daily. Baadal is his first restaurant. Yet by all accounts, it is a colossal success. Within just days of opening, reservations were nearly impossible to secure.

Unlike more traditional Indian restaurants, Chef Dama’s menus aim to demystify meals that often intimidate novice diners, by listing every ingredient included in a dish. The restaurant’s decor also provides a range of dining experiences, from quiet booths surrounded by sheer curtains to open-space tables to a rousing Bollywood-themed room intended for group celebrations.

There’s one other thing that’s different about Irfan Dama’s restaurant: It doesn’t charge customers a penny. In fact, anyone who’s had the good fortune of sampling Baadal’s world-class cuisine has done so for free.

Baadal is owned by Google. It is one of the thirty gourmet restaurants that cater to employees at the company’s Mountain View headquarters, known as the Googleplex.
At Google, eating is serious business. Every meal brings with it the opportunity to try over two hundred artisan-crafted dishes. Among the more recent offerings: roast quail, steak tartare, lobster bisque, black cod with parsley pesto and bread crumbs, and porcini-encrusted grass-fed beef. For lighter eaters, there is a salad bar, a noodle bar, a cheese and charcuterie bar, crudité platters, and seasonal sous vide vegetables. Between meals, Googlers are invited to visit one of the many microkitchens sprinkled throughout the campus, each open 24/7 and stocking organic fruit, yogurts, candy, nuts, and drinks. The goal at Google is for employees to be within three minutes of a food source at all times.

The vast and complementary food selection is one reason Google was ranked by Fortune magazine as the world’s best place to work. But as far as Googleplex amenities go, it’s only the tip of the iceberg.

Employees at the company are treated to massages, haircuts, eyebrow-shaping services, foreign language courses, and doctor visits, all on site and free of charge. They have access to three wellness centers, a bowling alley, basketball courts, a roller-hockey rink, ping-pong tables, arcade games, foosball tables, a rock-climbing wall, a putting green, and volleyball courts complete with actual sand. There’s an indoor tree house, manicured gardens, apiaries for recreational beekeeping, a replica of Richard Branson’s private spaceship, and the life-size skeleton of a Tyrannosaurus rex. Not to be forgotten: the heated toilet seats.

Google is far from the only organization investing heavily in the comfort of its employees. SAS, a business-analytics software company that earned more than $3 billion in 2012, provides its employees with access to tennis courts, saunas, a billiards hall, heated swimming pools, and work-life counseling, which includes confidential professional advice on financial planning, elder care, and family issues. At Facebook, employees can ride company-provided bicycles to the campus barber, drop off their dry cleaning, grab a latte, raid the free candy shop, and, conveniently, visit the on-site dentist.
And it’s not just companies in high tech. Wegmans, a northeastern U.S. grocery chain, has consistently appeared near the top of Fortune magazine’s list of 100 Best Companies to Work For over the past fifteen years. During that same time period, annual sales have nearly tripled. While many retail operations have tried growing earnings by reducing labor costs, Wegmans has steered in the opposite direction, offering its supermarket employees (many of whom are still in high school and simply glad to have a job) wellness programs, pretax spending accounts, 401(k) plans, life insurance, and education scholarships.

What’s the rationale behind all this lavish spending? For many companies on Fortune’s list, the basic calculus is simple: Happy employees mean bigger profits.

The more invested and enthusiastic people are about their work, the more successful their organization is on a variety of metrics. Studies indicate that happy employees are more productive, more creative, and provide better client service. They’re less likely to quit or call in sick. What’s more, they act as brand ambassadors outside the office, spreading positive impressions of their company and attracting star performers to their team.

The bottom line for many of the world’s most profitable organizations is this: Investing in workplace happiness doesn’t cost their company money—it ensures they stay on top.

It’s a perspective backed by some compelling data. Research conducted by the Great Place to Work Institute—the organization that compiles an annual list of leading workplaces in conjunction with Fortune magazine—reveals an eye-opening statistic: The stocks of companies on the Best Companies to Work For list outperform the market as a whole by a stunning factor of 2 to 1.

Investors are catching on. Around the time the Googleplex opened its doors in 2004, San Francisco–based Parnassus Investments launched a mutual fund comprised exclusively of companies with outstanding workplaces, like the ones on Fortune’s list. Since the fund’s inception, it’s recorded a 9.63 percent annualized return. In comparison, the overall S&P index during that same time period was a considerably more modest 5.58 percent.

The evidence is clear: Creating an extraordinary workplace can pay significant dividends.

So how do you do it?

Google, SAS, Facebook, and Wegmans certainly set a high bar. But what if you don’t have the budget of a multinational corporation? What if you’re struggling to find room for a bigger copier, let alone the space for an on-site wellness center? What if the closest thing your office has to a gourmet restaurant is the vending machine at the end of the hall?

What then?

This book happened by accident.

It came about after I left academics, where I’d spent years studying human motivation in the lab and teaching psychology at colleges and universities. Shortly after earning a doctorate in social psychology and settling into a teaching position, I found myself restless.

I’d planned on spending my life as a college professor. But the moment I stepped into the role, I began itching for a new challenge. I wanted to do something practical. Something applied. And so I entered the business world, where I was hired to measure public opinion as a pollster.

Not long after I arrived, I noticed something unexpected. As a social psychologist specializing in human motivation, I’d read countless studies on the factors that promote productivity, creativity, and engagement. Yet to my surprise, very few of these findings were being put to use. Much of what I observed—from the way organizations hire to the way leaders motivate to the layout and design of most office spaces—appeared blind to a wealth of research on how we can build a better workplace.
Over the past decade, advances in brain imaging, data-gathering methods, and behavioral science experiments have produced powerful insights into the conditions that help us work more effectively. We now know how to build a room that boosts creativity, how to turn workplace colleagues into close friends, and how to make any job more meaningful. We know that decorating your office can make you more productive, that going for a walk can lead to better decisions, and that embracing failure can actually help you succeed.

Yet most of these findings have remained trapped in library stacks, collecting dust on university shelves.

In some ways, the knowledge gap between the worlds of business and psychology makes complete sense. Until recently, organizations have had limited need for the advice of psychologists. The traditional workplace, which evolved from the days of the factory floor, had been operating adequately.

But then something momentous happened: The economy shifted. And suddenly the workplace model we’d relied on for generations was no longer as effective.

Back in the days of the industrial economy, building a successful workplace meant finding efficiencies through eliminating errors, standardizing performance, and squeezing more out of workers. How employees felt while doing their job was of secondary interest, because it had limited impact on their performance. The main thing was that the work got done.

Today things are different. Our work is infinitely more complex. We rarely need employees to simply do routine, repetitive tasks—we also need them to collaborate, plan, and innovate. Building a thriving organization in the current economy demands a great deal more than efficiency. It requires an environment that harnesses intelligence, creativity, and interpersonal skill.

Businesses today need psychologists. In a world where productivity hinges on the quality of an employee’s thinking, psychological factors are no longer secondary. They’re at the very core of what determines success.
Which brings me back to how I unintentionally came upon the idea for this book: After academia I assumed my writing days were over. But as I experienced the business world firsthand, both in the role of employee and manager, and as I interacted with hundreds of clients, getting an unvarnished view of how their organizations operate, one theme kept resurfacing again and again: There is a massive divide between the latest science and the modern workplace.

This book is an attempt to bridge that gap.

In the chapters that follow, I am going to tell you about revolutionary findings in the fields of motivation, creativity, behavioral economics, neuroscience, and management, and show you how you can use them to create a better workplace. Each chapter will address a different aspect of the workplace, offering illuminating and often counterintuitive best practices for making you and your company more effective.

You’ll learn how to motivate employees without relying on bonuses, how to choose between job applicants, and how to elevate pride in your organization. You’ll discover how to reach better spending decisions, how to defuse workplace disagreements, and how to make yourself more persuasive.

Along the way, we’ll meet some extraordinary individuals and hear their fascinating stories, each providing a unique lens for understanding workplace excellence. I’m going to take you behind the scenes of a hostage negotiation and demonstrate how verbal techniques used by the FBI can make you a better leader. I’ll introduce you to the man who created the cubicle and explain why his vision for the modern workplace makes perfect sense. I’ll show you what every organization can learn from the structure of video games, the design of a Las Vegas casino, and the hiring practices of a symphony orchestra.

We’ll cover lots of ground in a short time frame. The work you’re about to read fuses thousands of scientific studies in a way that I hope you’ll find engaging and relatively jargon-free. I have attempted to write the sort of book I’d want to read on a business trip. For me that means three things: fast-paced, entertaining, and actionable.

I designed this book with two audiences in mind. The first and perhaps most obvious are managers, owners, and CEOs—those with the ability to apply many of the research recommendations and immediately transform their team’s workplace experience.

But this book is not merely a playbook for those at the top of the corporate ladder. It is also written for emerging leaders who want data-driven insights for improving their own productivity and lifting their team’s performance. Regardless of where you sit on your company’s org chart, if you are interested in reaching smarter workplace decisions, having better colleague relationships, and making yourself indispensable to your company, this book can help.

There are many business books that provide broad principles and few practical recommendations. This is not one of them. Throughout every chapter, you will find specific, evidence-based changes you can apply at your workplace, regardless of your industry. In addition, at the conclusion of each chapter, you will find action items that build upon the findings, offering three more applications geared toward managers and emerging leaders, respectively.

An unavoidable downside of writing about workplaces in general and offering lots of specific recommendations is that not all of them will be applicable to everyone. Every organization is different. What works for Google may not be ideal for Wegmans, and vice versa. In that vein, some of the suggestions in this book may be perfect for your company, while others may appear less relevant. My intention here is not to offer a one-size-fits-all approach for building a great workplace (because that would be impossible) but to provide you with a menu of proven ingredients, so that you can choose what feels right within the context of your organization.

By the time you reach the conclusion of this book, I hope to have convinced you of a simple fact: that psychological insight can transform any organization into a great workplace.
The secret to happy workplaces isn’t spending more money. It’s about creating the conditions that allow employees to do their best work.

And how exactly do you do that? Turn the page. The answers, I believe, are here.

To order, click below
abstract thinking study, 26–27
Academy Awards, 159
Accenture, 236
acceptance, listening as universal language of, 196
Accidental Creative, The (Henry), 66 accident victims and happiness, 83
acquaintances into friendships, 102, 108–11, 112
Action Items for Emerging Leaders
casinos, learning from (happy workplaces), 99–100
focusing on themselves (mimicry), 217–18
games vs. money, 176
hostage negotiator thinking (listening), 197–98
leadership paradox (autonomy), 152–53
paid to play (play), 77–78
place, power of (workplace design), 49–50
pride, fostering, 265–66
seeing what others don’t (hiring), 246–47
strangers, turning into a community (friendships), 129–30
success is overrated (failure), 23–24
See also best place to work
Action Items for Managers
casinos, learning from (happy workplaces), 98–99
focusing on themselves (mimicry), 216–17
games vs. money, 175–76
hostage negotiator thinking (listening), 196–97
leadership paradox (autonomy), 151–52
paid to play (play), 76–77
place, power of (workplace design), 48–49
pride, fostering, 264–65
seeing what others don’t (hiring), 245–46
strangers, turning into a community (friendships), 128–29
success is overrated (failure), 23–24
See also best place to work
Action Office, xvi, 30–32, 34, 47
active listening, 184–87, 194, 195
Acuity, 258
Ad Age, 62
Admiral Group, 87
adrenaline, 188
AdSense, 67
Afghanistan, 74
after-work activities and workplace friendships, 116–17, 128–29, 271, 273
Akraya Inc., 164, 258
Allen, Woody, 54
Allianz Life, 256
Alston & Bird, 259
Alter, Michael, 22
Amabile, Teresa, 94
Amazon, 76
Amsterdam study, 18
Anderson, Cameron, 158
Angry Birds (game), 156, 160–61, 174–75
AOL, 70
Apple, 10, 38, 261
appreciation, 165–66, 273
approach motivational state, 16–17
arguments, 187–90, 196, 197
Ariely, Dan, 140–41
aroma marketing, 91
Aron, Art, 108–11, 112
Art and Science of Love, Sex and the Single Man (Ellis), 7 asking questions and listening, 197
assembly-line mentality, 137–39, 145, 149, 272, 273
assessment of workplace pride, 249
Arlassian, 64
attempts vs. outcomes, rewarding, 8, 23
attracting and retaining top performers, xv–xvi, 270–74
Index

pride, fostering, 248–66

seeing what others don’t (hiring), xvi, 221–47

See also best place to work

attractiveness impact, hiring, 224–25, 226–27, 228

Augustin, Sally, 35

authentic pride, 262, 263–64

autonomy (leadership paradox), 133–53, 171

avoidance motivational state, 16–17, 18

Baadal restaurant, California, xi

“babycash,” Facebook, 259

back (exposed) and tension, 34–35, 36

Badger Mining Corporation, 259

banners, recruitment, 233–35

bars and music, 91

Baseball Hall of Fame, 5, 159

bathrooms, workplace design, 41, 49, 92

BBDO, 62

Bear Stearns, 133

Becker, Franklin, 37

Beethoven, Ludwig van, 8, 54

behavioral contagion, 204–5, 208

behavioral interview questions, 238–39

behavior vs. person, complimenting, 164, 176

Bejeweled (game), 156, 160–61

Bell, Alexander Graham, 29

Ben & Jerry’s, 70

Berkshire Hathaway, 134, 135, 136

Best Companies to Work For, xiii, 115

best place to work, xi–xviii, 267–74

employee engagement, 267–69, 273
gap between latest science and modern workplace, xv–xvi, 269

happy employees, bigger profits, xiii–xiv

psychology and, xiv–xvi, xvii–xviii

three keys to creating an extraordinary workplace, 267–74

See also Action Items for Emerging Leaders; Action Items for Managers; attracting and retaining top performers; designing an extraordinary workplace experience; lessons; motivating excellence

Bethlehem Steel Works, 138

better than money (games), xvi, 154–76

Bezos, Jeff, 76

Biden, Joe, 53

Biggest Loser competition, 121

bin Laden, Osama, 52, 74, 75

BIRGing (basking in reflected glory), 252

blackjack, 79–81, 94–95

Blair, Bonnie, 39

Blakely, Sara (Spanx), 12–14

“blind” interviews, 222–24, 237, 245

blind spots, hiring, 229–31

Bliss Integrated Communication, 39

blue (color) and thinking, 36

body language, emotions, 205, 207, 218

bonuses, 84, 85, 98

Boston Consulting Group, 73

Boston Symphony Orchestra, 222–23

Brady, Tom, 171

brain-derived neurotrophic factor (BDNF), 61

branding your workplace experience, 37–42, 49, 271

Branson, Richard, xii

Brens, Mr., 178, 192–93

brick use study, 56

Brin, Sergey, 67, 241

Brown, Stuart, 59

Bryant, Kobe, 11

Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra, 221, 223

Buffett, Warren, 134–36, 142–43

building blocks of pride, 252–59, 264–65

bullpen offices, 30

Burger, Edward, 14–15

Cahill, Daniel, 112

California State University, 105 candidate pool, improving, 233–36
car-buying experiment, 54–55, 56
caring, simplifying, 129

Caring Unites Partners (CUP), Starbucks, 123

Carnegie, Dale, 135

Carnegie Mellon University, 57 car salesmen study, 181–82

carter, Jimmy, 52

cartwright, James (General), 53

casinos, learning from (happy workplaces), xvi, 79–100
caveman’s guide to building a better office, 34–37, 48, 150
caves and campfires, workplace design, 45–48, 271

celebrations, sharing, 122–23, 129

charitable contributions, building pride, 256, 266

Charles, Laurie, 190–91

Charles Schwab, 256

chatter, 166

Chatterjee, Arijit, 212–13

chef’s name on menus, 257

Chicago, Illinois, 215–16

cbes, cr, 261

childlike mind-set, 58–59

children and mimicry, 203–4
chips vs. money in casinos, 81
choking, 141
Christakis, Nicholas, 214, 215
CIA, 51, 52, 53
Cincinnati Reds, 3–4
circadian rhythms, 35, 150
Cisco, 26, 46, 70
clarifying what other person has said, active listening, 186–87
Clifton, Donald, 101–2, 104
Clinton, Hillary, 53
close-ended questions, 147
CNN, 13
coaching, 171–73
Coca-Cola, 108, 134
cocktail parties, 117, 248–49
Coffitivity.com, 50
cognitive anchors, 226
Cohen, Sheldon, 121–22
college sports, 166–67
Collins, Jim, 253
color impact on thinking, 27–28, 36
Columbia University, 183–84 commitment to the greater good, building pride, 255–57, 264, 266 common cold study, 121–22
communal spaces, workplace design, 41–42, 49, 271
competence and happiness, 159–60, 161, 165, 171, 270
competence dimension of personality, 230–31, 238, 247 competition and group relations, 118
complicating your workers’ lives, 168–71, 175, 176
Connors, Jimmy, 201
conscious vs. unconscious deliberation, 53–57, 64, 77–78
constructing during job interview, 232
Construction Control Inc., 120
Cooper, Anderson, 13
Cornell University, 37
couples and behavioral contagion, 204
covert deceptions, job title inflation, 260–61
Coyle, Daniel, 11
creative geniuses’ features, 8–12, 66
creativity, sparking, 15–19
creativity and exercise, 60, 61
creativity diet, 64–67, 77, 78
Creswell, J. David, 57
cross-departmental competitions, 121
cross-row combinations, slot machines, 82
Csikszentmihalyi, Mihaly, 169, 173–74
cubicles, xvi, 31–32, 34, 47
Cuddy, Amy, 230
cultural fit and hiring, 243–45, 246
CureViolence, 215–16
Daily Show, The (TV show), 160
Daimler, 73
Dama, Irfan, xi
Dance Dance Revolution (game), 154–55
Dante, 262
dark side of happiness, 94–98, 99–100
Daxko, 39
Day of Osmosis, Genesis Fertility Centre, 120
Dean, Jeremy, 97
Deci, Edward, 95–96, 142
defusing an argument, 187–90, 197
Deloitte, 235, 259
DePree, D. J., 29
Derber, Charles, 198
designing an extraordinary workplace experience, xv–xvi, 270–74
casinos, learning from (happy workplaces), xvi, 79–100
paid to play (play), 51–78, 272
place, power of (workplace design), xv, xvi, 26–50
strangers, turning into a community (friendships), xv, 101–30, 270–71
success is overrated (failure), xv, 2, 3–23, 70
See also best place to work
Diageo, 236
Diener, Ed, 96–97
dieters, 143, 253
dinnertime, practicing gratitude, 100
disapproving parents study, 143–44
disconnecting, importance of, 71–73, 77
disengaged employees, 267–68, 273
distinctiveness, building pride, 254–55
distractions, 28, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 43, 48, 50, 271 diverse workforce, 244, 245, 246
doctor-patient relationships, 180–82
Dog Day, Hitachi Data Systems, 87
Dollars for Doers, Microsoft, 256–57
doc-com bubble, 133
DPR Construction, 258
DreamWorks, 44–45
Drive (Pink), 95
drone strike, 52, 53, 74
Duke, 140
Dunbar, Robin, 125
Index

Eagles experiment, 118–20

Ebay, 46

Edison, Thomas, 10

Edmondson, Amy, 19–20

education of creative geniuses, 9

Eiffel Tower, 27

Einstein, Albert, 54

EKS&H, 258

Eli Lilly, 21

Ellis, Albert, 5–8

e-mail, 36, 43, 44, 71, 72–73, 77, 115, 164, 165, 218, 256, 272

embarrassment, value of, 96

embellishment during job interview, 232

emotional contagion, 205–6, 207, 208, 216, 218

emotional tone of candidate, 205–6, 207, 208, 216, 218

empathy, expressing, 192–93

employee engagement, 267–69, 273

employee-manager relationship, 184

Employee of the Month awards, 162–63

Empower Public Relations, 72

Encyclopedia of Sexual Behavior, The (Ellis), 7

end in mind, designing with, 48

endorphins, 61

Energy Pods, 70

entryways, workplace design, 38–39, 49, 92

environment and happiness, 90–92

Ernst & Young, 235

Etsy, 44–45

Everett Clinic in Washington, 235

Evernote, 73

Evert, Chris, 201

evolutionary psychologists, 34–35, 36, 124

exercise, xv, 60–64, 77, 78, 271

experiences vs. objects, rewards, 89–90

exposure effect, 107–8

extrinsic motivation, 138, 140–41, 142

eye contact, active listening, 186

Facebook, xii, xiv, 66, 166, 259

facial expressions and emotions, 205, 207, 208, 218

factory-floor mentality, 137–39, 145, 149, 272, 273

Failure CV, 22

failure (success is overrated), xv, 2, 3–25, 70

familiarity and friendships, 107–8, 116, 120, 271

family-oriented techniques, building pride, 258–59, 273

Fast Company, 261

“favorites wall,” Daxko, 39

Favre, Brett, 11

Fayard, Anne-Laure, 33

FBI, xvi, 179, 191

feedback for interviewers, 240

female musicians, 222, 223

Ferretti, Steve, 38–39

fight-or-flight, 18, 61, 141, 188–89

financial advisers study, 182

first impressions and hiring, 224–26, 247

floors of casinos, 82

flow, 169–70, 171, 173–74

focusing on themselves (mimicry), 127, 165, 199–218

food consumption and mimicry, 204

Fortune magazine, xii, xiii, 116, 134

Fowler, James, 214, 215

fraternities, 237

Freeman, Morgan, 227

free weights, 63

French Open (1990), 199–201, 209

frequency vs. size of positive events, 84–86, 98

Freud, Sigmund, 5, 232

Friedman, Thomas, 76

friendships (strangers, turning into a community), xv, 101–30, 270–71

FullContact, 73

furniture, workplace design, 28, 40–41, 90

future focus, building pride, 253, 254, 264

Gallup, 41, 102, 181, 184, 267, 268, 269

gambling, 79–81, 94–95

games vs. money, xvi, 154–76

gap between latest science and modern workplace, xv–xvi, 269

gardening, taking up, 76

Gates, Bill, 29

Gates, Robert, 53

Genesis Fertility Centre, 120

gift baskets, 258

Gladwell, Malcolm, 108

Glass, Jennifer, 42

Google, xi–xii, xiii, xiv, xvii, 11–12, 24, 26, 41, 42, 46, 47, 58, 59, 66–67, 233–35, 241

gossip, 123–28, 130

Graf, Steffi, 199–201, 202

grand narrative, building pride, 253–54

Grant, Adam, 167–68

Grant Thornton, 239

gratefully and happiness, 92–94, 100

Gratitude Journal 365, 100

Great Place to Work Institute, xiii, 115

green (color) and thinking, 36

Gretzky, Wayne, 11, 24
Grey Advertising, 20, 21
group distinctiveness, building pride, 254–55 growth and failure, 13–14, 24
Gruber, June, 96
grunting tennis players, 200–202, 203, 209–10
guilt, value of, 96
Guitar Hero (game), 155
halo effect, 226–27
Hambrick, Donald, 212–13
happiness baseline, 83–84
happiness mind-set, 82–83, 98
happy employees, bigger profits, xiii–xiv
Happy Tapper, 100
happy workplaces (casinos, learning from), xvi, 79–100
hard truth about hiring, 245
hardworking employees, building pride, 258
Harrer, Jim, 269
Harvard, 19, 40, 136, 223, 230
HCL Technologies, 22
height of candidate impact, hiring, 227, 228
height of room impact, 27
Henry, Charles, 133–35
Henry, Todd, 66
Herman, Pee-wee, 227
Herman Miller, 29, 31
Hilcorp Energy Company, 120–21
hiring (seeing what others don’t), xvi, 221–47
history for building pride, 253–54, 264–65
Hitachi Data Systems, 87
Holder Construction, 258
hostage negotiator thinking (listening), xvi, 177–98
Houston, Eric, 177–80, 191–94, 195
how not to recognize employees, 161–63, 176
how office design shapes our thinking, xvi, 26–50
how thinking like a hostage negotiator can make you more persuasive, influential, and motivating, xvi, 177–98
how to eliminate interview blind spots that prevent you from reading people’s true potential, xvi, 221–47
how to turn a group of strangers into a community, 101–30, 270–71
hubristic pride, 262–63, 263–64
Huffington Post, 70
humor of candidate, 242
hypothalamus, 188
IBM, 73, 134
ice skates display, Ferretti Designs, 39 idea ambassadors, 261
immediate feedback, 163
immediate gratification, 81
Imo, 99
improving your hiring decisions, 233–36
Inc. magazine, 12
India, 140
industrial economy and productivity, xv inequality, encouraging, 42–45, 149–51, 151–52
influence in the workplace, 182–84
Inside Higher Ed, 14
inspirational vision, building pride, 253–54, 264 Integrated Project Management, 259
integrating work and family life improves quality of both, 272–73
Integrity Applications Incorporated, 259
Intel, 26
intelligent failure, 14–15, 20, 24, 270
interests of creative geniuses, 9, 66
Interrupters, CureViolence, 215–16
interview blind spots, eliminating (hiring), xvi, 221–47 intimate relationships, 107, 108, 111, 204
intrinsic motivation, 134–36, 142–43, 145–46, 149, 152, 269
iPad, iPhone, 10
iron extraction from sand (Edison), 10
Jackson, Reggie, 11
Jacobs, Gary, 47
James, LeBron, 171
J curve, 24
Jobs, Steve, 10, 22, 24, 66
job titles and pride, 259–62
John, Dinesh, 63
Johns Manville, 133–34
Johnson, Silas, 3–5
joining, listening, 193, 197
Jones, James Earl, 227
journaling positive events, 93, 100
Journal of Applied Psychology, 71
Journal of Marital and Family Therapy, 191
Journal of the American Medical Association, 121
Judge, Timothy, 157
judgment, avoiding when listening, 191–92
Kahneman, Daniel, 226
Kelley, Tom, 120
Kim, Peter, 22
Kimpton Hotels & Restaurants, 258
kitty litter pitch meeting, 20–21
knowledge economy, 24–25, 69, 139–40, 145, 149
Kramer, Steven, 94
Lao Tzu, 262
lasting workplace relationships key, 116–17, 128, 129, 130
leadership paradox (autonomy), 133–53, 171
Leeds Metropolitan University, 63–64
Lendl, Ivan, 202, 210
Leonardo da Vinci, 8, 29
lessons
casinos, learning from (happy workplaces), 98–100
focusing on themselves (mimicry), 216–18
games vs. money, 175–76
hostage negotiator thinking (listening), 196–98
leadership paradox (autonomy), 151–53
paid to play (play), 76–78
place, power of (workplace design), 48–50
pride, fostering, 264–66
seeing what others don’t (hiring), 245–47
strangers, turning into a community (friendships), 128–30
success is overrated (failure), 23–25
See also best place to work
Lewis, Michael, 76
Liebowitz, Jonathan, 160
lightbulb invention (Edison), 10
Lindhurst High School, Olivehurst, California, 177–80, 191–94, 195, 196
LinkedIn, 224
Little Book of Talent, The (Coyle), 11
lobbies, workplace design, 38–39, 49, 92
Loehr, Jim, 71–72
London Business School, 214
loneliness and stupidity, 104–5
long-serving employees, building pride, 258
Loomis, Carol, 134
Lorang, Bart, 73
lottery winners and happiness, 83
loyalty to an organization, 103–4, 249
Lucas, Richard, 96–97
lunch, midafternoon crash, 67–68, 69, 78
lunch (extended) and exercise, 63–64
lying during a job interview, 231–33
Lyubomirsky, Sonja, 88
macromanagement, 152
Mantle, Mickey, 11
Martinez, Arthur, 260
Maryland State Police study, 106
Mauss, Iris, 96
McCain, John, 252
McDonald’s, 250
McMurry, 258
meal stipend, 85–86
meaningful jobs, 166–68
meaningful rationale, autonomy, 146
medical lawsuits, 180–81
Mednick, Sara, 68
memory, 36, 57, 60, 61, 68, 69, 70, 78, 150
mental presence for active listening, 185
Mercedes-Benz, 77
Merck & Co., 21, 22
micromanagement, 143–45, 146–47, 152–53
Microsoft, 256–57
Midvale Steel Company, 138, 139
Milligan, Susan, 42
mimicry (focusing on themselves), 127, 165, 199–218
mining failures for opportunities, 23 minister of comedy, 261
“Ministry of Fun,” Admiral Group, 87
mirroring, 148, 193
mirror neurons, 208, 209
MIT, 40, 136, 210
modeling behaviors, 217
money and happiness, 156–58, 159
See also games vs. money
mornings for learning, insight at night, 78, 150
motivating excellence, xv–xvi, 270–74
focusing on themselves (mimicry), 127, 165, 199–218
games vs. money, xvi, 154–76
hostage negotiator thinking (listening), xvi, 177–98
leadership paradox (autonomy), 133–53, 171
See also best place to work
Mullen, Mike (Admiral), 53, 74
multiple interviewers, 238
multitasking, 43–44, 63
music and happiness, 91, 92
Myhren, Tor, 21
Myths of Happiness, The (Lyubomirsky), 88 naming conference rooms, workplace design, 40
napping and productivity, 67–71, 271
narcissistic CEOs study, 212–14
National Institute for Play, 59 nature (access to), workplace design, 35–36, 48, 49, 272
Navratilova, Martina, 202, 209
Navy SEALs, 52, 53, 74, 75
NBC, 75
“Necessity Is the Mother of Invention,” 18 negative emotions, value of, 95–97
negative feelings (acknowledging), autonomy, 148
Nelson, George, 30
Netflix, 73
Netherlands study, 53, 54–55, 57
new car happiness, 157
new hires, building pride, 258
new parents, building pride, 258–59
New York Botanical Garden, 5, 6, 7
New York Times, 33, 42, 76, 135, 216
Nietzsche, Friedrich, 253
Nike, 70
nitric oxide, 36
Nobel Prize winners, 159, 226
North Dakota State University, 58–59
Norway, 155
note taking by interviewers, 239
Nova Southeastern University, 190
novelty, 83
Obama, Barack (President), 51, 52, 53, 73–74, 75–76, 252
Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), 203
office design history, 29–34
office perks, 85, 98, 99
Oishi, Shigehiro, 96–97
onboarding process, 113–16, 128, 271
on-the-job learning, 170
open-ended questions, 147, 241
open-plan workplace designs, 33, 34
open spaces, 47
“Optimal Level of Well-Being, The” (Oishi, Diener, and Lucas), 96–97 order of interview bias, 229–30
organizational altruism, 255–57
“organizational body language,” 37
Organizational Culture and Leadership (Schein), 210–11 organizations are more successful when they address the limits of the mind and body, 271–72
Osborn, John, 62–63
Ottawa Republican-Times, 3 outcome vs. process, autonomy, 146–47
outside-the-box thinking, 41, 59, 64
overt flouts, job title inflation, 260, 261
Owens Corning, 236
ownership, building pride, 257–59, 265
Pacer, The (Osama bin Laden), 52, 74, 75
Page, Larry, 12, 67
paid to play (play), 51–78, 272
Pakistan, 51–53, 74
Panetta, Leon, 53
paraphrasing and active listening, 186
parents, building pride, 258–59
Parnassus Investments, xiii–xiv parties, 84–85
party planners, learning from, 113–16, 128
passive listening, 185
PEARLS (Partnership, Empathy, Acknowledgment, Respect, Legitimation, Support), 189–90, 198
peer-to-peer coaching, 171–73
peer-to-peer recognition, 165
Penn State, 212
performance and pride, 240–50
performance reviews, 161–62, 176
personality of candidate, 230–31, 238, 242, 247
personality of leader and company, 212–14
personalizing workspaces, xv, 44–45, 49, 272
personal responsibility and pride, 256 persuasion guide, 190–94
Peterson, Randall, 214
P&G, 70
pharmaceutical companies, 21–22
physical characteristics impact, hiring, 224–29, 245
Pictometry, 85–86
Pink, Daniel, 95
place, power of (workplace design), xv, xvi, 26–50
Plante Moran, 87
planting seed for narratives, pride, 260–66
plants and workplace design, 36, 48
playing the long game, 24
play (paid to play), 51–78, 272
Poggedle, 40
politics and pride, 252, 253, 254, 255, 257
Porras, Jerry, 253
positive (adding) vs. negative (removing), 164
positive feedback (undeserved), 162
posture for active listening, 186
power of place (workplace design), xv, xvi, 26–50
praise, science of, 163–64, 175–76
prefrontal cortex, 57
presidential candidates, height, and popular vote, 227
pride, fostering, 248–66
Princeton, 223
Principles of Scientific Management, The (Taylor), 139 privacy issues, workplace design, 31–32, 33
private interviews with interviewers, 240
private offices, 32, 34, 47
private recognition of employees, 216–17 process loss, 104
progressive difficulty, 168–71, 175, 176
Progress Principle, The (Amabile and Kramer), 94
projective questions, hiring, 241–42
Prokes, Megan, 221–22, 223–24
Propst, Robert, 223
Rapp, Propst, xvi, 29–32, 33
prospect and refuge locations, 34–35, 36
psychological needs are at the heart of employee engagement, 270–71 Psychological Science, 158
psychology and best place to work, xiv–xvi, xvii–xviii psychopaths, 97
public recognition of employees, 216–17
public vs. private praise, 164
Q12 survey, 102
Qualcomm, 67, 87
Radio Flyer, 64
Ramsey, Rosemary, 181–82
Ratey, John J., 60, 61
Rattlers experiment, 118–20
reactance, 144–45
reading people’s true potential (hiring), xvi, 221–47
red (color) and thinking, 27–28
referred hires, 235–36, 246–47
relationship-building statements, 188–89, 194, 195–96, 198 relationships, initial glow, 88
religion and pride, 252, 253, 254, 255, 257
Remote Associates Test (RAT), 15–16, 17
reputation of organization and pride, 249 respect, recognition, and happiness, 138–61, 165, 166, 175–76
restating other’s words and active listening, 186
restorative experiences, 45, 49–50
rewarding failure, right way to, 20–23
rewards and performance, 138, 140–41, 142
rewards focus (minimizing), autonomy, 148, 152, 153
Rice University, 26–27
risk-taking mind-set, promoting, 81–82
Rock Band (game), 155
Rock Island Islanders, 3
“Romeo and Juliet effect,” 144
round-the-clock culture, 72, 77
Ruth, Babe, 4–5, 7, 10, 22
Ryan, Richard, 142 sadness, value of, 96
salespeople, 180–82
Salo, 62
Sapolsky, Robert, 18
sarcastic candidates, 242
SAS, xii, xiv
scents and happiness, 91
schedule flexibility, 42–45, 149–51, 151–52
Schein, Edgar, 210–11, 212
Schmidt, Eric, 11–12
Schroeder, Alice, 135
Schwartz, Tony, 69
Science, 28, 55
science of making friends, 106–8, 128–29
scientific management, 136–39, 140
seasonal events for variety, 87
seating arrangements, workplace design, 28, 40, 48
secret to better workplace relationships, 195–96
seeing what others don’t (hiring), xvi, 221–47
Seery, Mark, 17–18
selective listening, 185
Seles, Monica, 199–201, 202, 209, 210
self-determination theorists, 149
setbacks, sharing, 123
Shakespeare, William, 8, 9, 22
shame and pride, 251
Sharapova, Maria, 202, 203
Sheriff, Muzafar, 117–20
Sherman, Craig, 250
shift vs. support response, listening, 197–98
shrinking your interview blind spots, 236–49
Sias, Patricia, 112
similarity and friendships, 108, 116, 129, 229, 271
similarity and mimicry, 207, 218
similarity of workforce, 229, 243–45, 246
Simonton, Dean, 8, 9–10, 65–66
Simplynoise.com, 50
Sistine Chapel, 27
situational judgment interview questions, 238, 239
sleep (deep) vs. napping, 69
slot players and machines, 81–82
slow approach (taking), listening, 192
Slutkin, Gary, 215–16
smokers and motivation, 143
Snagajob, 115, 258
social media and appreciation, 165–66
social networks, 214–16, 217, 218
social norms, company culture, 209–12, 217
Sohi, Ravipreet, 181–82
solutions incubator, building, 171–74
solutions offered by creative geniuses, 9–10
sound of victory, 200–203
soundtrack (workplace), creating, 28, 50
sowing the seeds for a workplace community, 121–23, 128–30
S&P, xiv
Spanx, 12–14
Spark: The Revolutionary New Science of Exercise and the Brain (Ratey), 60
sparking creativity, 15–19
specific feedback, 163
specific work activities, planning happiness boosts around, 98
Spokane Teachers Credit Union, 259
spontaneous interactions and innovation, 32, 46
sports and pride, 251–52, 253, 254, 255
staff meetings, progress-focused, 93–94
standardizing interviews, 238
Stanford, 151
Starbucks, 123, 261
status and pride, 251–52, 258–59, 264
status and setting social norms, 209–12
Stewart, Jon, 160
“sticky” behavior, 209
stores and music, 91
strangers, turning into a community (friendships), xv, 101–30, 270–71
stretch goals, 170
Studer Group, 259
subordinate goals, 119–21, 129–30
Subway, 261
success contagion, 206–7
success is overrated (failure), xv, 2, 3–25, 70
Suchman, Anthony, 188, 189–90
sunlight, workplace design, 35–36, 48, 272
support response, listening, 197–98
SurePayroll, 22
surprises and big thrills, 88–89 survival and mimicry, 207–9
symphony orchestra hiring practices, xvi, 221–24, 237
tailoring during job interview, 232
Taj Mahal, 27
Take a Nap! Change Your Life (Mednick), 68
Talent Plus, 258
talking-to-listening ratio, 196–97
Tamir, Maya, 96
task channel, conversation, 188, 189, 197
Taylor, Frederick Winslow (Taylorism), 136–39, 140, 141–42, 143, 153
teams and success, 19–20
telecommuting, 42–45, 151, 270
telemarketers study, 167–68
telling a story using space, 37–42, 49, 271
temptation to speak (resisting) for active listening, 185–86
tennis players, grunting, 200–202, 203, 209–10
Texas Health Resources, 62
text messages, 36, 71
“they,” abolishing, 117–21
three keys to creating an extraordinary workplace, 267–74
3M, 58, 67
time off policies, 73
Time Warner, 70
touchpoints, workplace design, 38–41, 49, 271
Tracy, Chuck, 179–80, 190, 191–94, 195
traveling, recognizing home pleasures, 86
treadmill desks, 62–63
Trump, Donald and Melania, 8
turf wars, 104, 130
Twitter, 59
unconscious and hiring, 224–29
unconscious vs. conscious deliberation, 53–57, 64, 77–78
unexpected pleasures and big thrills, 88–89
University of Buffalo, 17
University of California-Berkeley, 158
University of California-Irvine, 43
University of Colorado, 143–44, 230
University of Florida, 157
University of Massachusetts, 232
University of Minnesota, 102–3, 224–25
University of Nebraska, 101
University of Notre Dame, 123
University of Pennsylvania, 102–3
University of Rochester, 95, 154, 155, 205
University of Tennessee, 63
University of Zurich, 85
U.S. News & World Report, 42
validation for active listening, 186
Vanity Fair, 76
variety of positive events, preventing adaptation, 86–88, 99
victimized candidates, 242
See also games vs. money
violence, stifling, 215–16
voice quality impact, hiring, 227, 228
Volkswagen, 72
volunteering, building pride, 256
walking meetings, 64
Wall Street Journal, 21
warmth dimension of personality, 230–31, 238, 247
Washington State University, 91, 112
water tank episode, 119
Way We’re Working Isn’t Working, The (Schwartz), 69
Webster’s dictionary, 181
Wegmans, xiii, xiv, xvii
Wharton Business School, 105, 167
what games can teach us about motivation, xvi, 154–76
what happy workplaces can learn from casinos, xvi, 79–100
what sports, politics, and religion teach us about fostering pride, 248–66
where pride comes from, 251–52
white noise, 50
who you know, who you are, 214–16, 217, 218
why forceful leaders develop less productive teams, 133–53
why great workplaces reward failure, xv, 2, 3–25, 70
why you should be paid to play, 51–78, 272
Williams, Brian, 75
Williams, Serena, 171, 202, 203
windows, workplace design, 35–36
Wired magazine, 66
wireless headsets, conference calls, 63
women phobia (Ellis Albert), 5–8
Women’s Tennis Association, 203
word puzzle experiments, 205–6
Words With Friends (game), 156
work assignment interview, 237, 245
work-life balance, 272–73
Workman Publishing, 70
workplace design (place, power of), xv, xvi, 26–50
workplace terrorists, 127
World War I, 139
World War II, 222
wrong way to build pride, 259–62
Yahoo!, 42, 66, 70
Yale, 40
Yammer, 166
yawning and mimicry, 205
Zappos, 70, 243
Zolten, Amanda, 20–21
Zoned Performance, 13
Zynga, 59